Swimmer: Une Juive Ancienne De Jérusalem Avec Un Danseur De Butte Feuille D'Or Voléte-sur-le-Danube De La Collection Les Grands Ballets De La Pléiade Nuage (17,00 $) February 17, 2006 8 1 The seven songs (two original compositions by Ravetz and five covers) for chorus and orchestra, with nine orchestral instruments and a solo cello, are clearly structured around two texts, the first of which, La Cathédrale, takes up seven of the eight songs. The second, Le Temps Du Miroir, is a shorter poetic text based on a line from Rigaut's inspired poem, "Les Quarante Oiseaux," and becomes the refrain for "Les Quarante Oiseaux," the fourth song in the work. The clear structure of the seven songs contrasts strongly with the ambiguity of the text, which recalls the work of Ovid and Lucretius and uses a hyperbolic style influenced by Rimbaud, Mallarmé, and others. Léon Ravetz, the French composer who died in 2007, was a member of the Musique concrète group with Henri Dutilleux and Pierre Schaeffer, and created works like L'Armée Des Fantomes (1957). He wrote mostly for orchestra and was considered one of the leading composers in France. From 1974 to 1999, he was music director of the Radio France/Les Compositeurs de la Radiodiffusion Française. Déjà Absent (4,50 $) February 17, 2006 8 1 Ten short movements for solo viola and piano composed in late 2004 and the following year. These are highly complex and structured, largely in thirty-second note groups, and develop into small sonata movements. Like the previous, the second work in the set, Tristesse, is the only one to feature an additional piano part. The four works in the set, which are the first compositions for piano of the new French violinist Julie-Anne Reulen, who is based in New York, are based on and feature quotations from the work of the Italian composer Giovanni Legrenzi (1931-2007), who was also a member of the Musique concrète group.
